Reporting back to parents.

Researchers

Community Members

You

Your participation in Padres Informados/Jóvenes Preparados study helps researchers know if the study works.

Parents receive training to positively influence their youth to make good choices.

If the program works, it can be used to help other Latino communities.

What We've Heard:
Out of 83 families...

98% felt the leader listened and gave answers to questions and concerns.

99% able to use what they learned from the sessions.

98% felt the leader helped them understand lessons.

92% felt comfortable sharing their thoughts.

96% felt the sessions were interesting.

Parents' Voices:

“Learning to not criticize our kids by name calling.”

“Learning the difference between disciplining my child and punishment.”

“...being able to talk and be listened to without being interrupted.”

“I learned how to be a mentor for my son.”